KAISER ADMIRES ALL AMERICANS

Emperor William Likes the Energy Displayed by the Western World.

Berlin, June 12.—"Only Americans meet my wants." is one of the latest utterances of Emperor William circulated in army and government circles. The emperor spoke these words recently, according to the Tageblatt, while dining with the officers of one of his favorite Silesian regiments and the thought pleased the emperor so much that he has frequently repeated it in other forms since then. It is pointed out that the visit of the Prussian finance minister, Baron von Rheinbaben, to the United States, attracts unusual attention among the initiated, because of the emperor's admiration for American energy and practical insight, and it is assumed that his majesty designs giving the minister larger tasks, for which his American observations will be specially useful.

CHILI IS GOING BACKWARD FAST

New Political Scandals and the Municipal Thefts Are Daily Happenings.

Valparaiso, Chile, June 12.—This country which formerly ranked first South America, is now going backwards with gigantic strides. Embellishments of public and private funds are of daily occurrence. The authorities do nothing to stop crime. There are deputies, former members of the cabinet and contractors who, instead of being in jail, have received high appointments. As a result of the judicial investigation into the scrap iron robbery from the state railways it has been discovered that the thefts embraced steel, brass, lubricants and coal. The thefts were committed systematically and a great scandal has been caused. As the state railways have not been bringing in any dividends, affairs of state are in a plight, causing much concern. The railways have been running as a political organization, employees being selected according to their political ideas, relationship or friendship to the party in power.

DIPLOMAS GIVEN LAST EVENING

CLOSING EXERCISES OF HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION HELD.

AN EXCELLENT PROGRAM

Class of 1903 Complete Their Four Years Work in Most Creditable Manner.

two head

Forty-nine names have been added to the alumni roll of the high school. Pres. W. S. Jeffris of the school board presented that number of diplomas at the close of the third evening's commencement exercises of the class of 1903. Twenty-eight young men were included in the list, a greater proportion of the masculine element than in any previous graduation class.

The exercises thus far have been in crescendo movement, and the orations and theses of last evening formed a fitting climax for the three nights' programs. Two evenings of festivity yet remain for the graduating class—tonight's banquet when they first take their place among the alumni, and the senior hop which occurs next Tuesday. Their undergraduate career is ended.

Impressive Farewell
The exercises with which the class took farewell of the school, its teachers and its students, were especially impressive. The presentation of the class token—a bust of President McKinley—the valedictory address, the presentation of diplomas, and the class song marked the severing of school ties. Aside from a few digs in the class song at members of the faculty and of the graduating class there was no suspicion of the jollity and mirth which characterized some of the earlier ceremonies of the week. Everything pointed to the momentous nature of the occasion. Every seat in the high school auditorium was filled long before the hour set for the program. A number were obliged to stand throughout the evening. Among some members of the lower classes who were seated in the gallery there was a tendency to be rather more demonstrative than the occasion required, so exuberant were their spirits. Whatever pleased their fancy won a volley of applause, and whenever in doubt the applause followed anyway.

A Delightful Program
When the high school orchestra took its seats before the stage, the enthusiasts in the upper part of the house received their cue for a demonstration. After the opening number, which was very creditably played, the applause was redoubled. The orchestra has won a vast deal of admiring comment this week. "Anarchy" was the subject of the oration delivered by Fred B. Welch. He exhibited abundant force and energy in his scathing denunciation of anarchical principles. Socialism was contrasted to anarchy, the one magnifying the powers of the government, the other belittling and attempting to overthrow the same powers.

Socialism is in harmony with the principles which must inevitably govern a normal body of living beings. Wild animals invariably follow a leader. The dictum of the anarchist that government is a caprice of society is unfounded on fact. A body of citizens under no recognized head must come to woe. By following his individual bent, regardless of the welfare of others, each citizen is striking a blow at the root of civilization. Mr. Welch closed by extolling the democratic principles which have guided the United States.

Poem in German
Although delivered in a tongue which was unintelligible to the majority of the audience, the recitation of the "Erikoenig" by Miss Alice M. Ludden was distinctly pleasing. Miss Ludden's articulation was unusually clear and she rendered Goethe's immortal poem with a high degree of expression. Miss Grace Carpenter treated "Optical Delusion" in a semi-scientific manner which made the subject thoroughly interesting. Lantern views showing a number of the more common illusions, whereby equal lines appear unequal, parallel lines appear divergent, and other phenomena trick the eye. By measurement Miss Carpenter proved things not what they seemed.

Miss Harriet C. Anderson was to have delivered a thesis upon "The Influence of Greek Mythology Upon Greek Life." Illness made it doubtful whether she would be able to be present last evening to receive her diploma which she had won with honors. Delivering the thesis was out of the question. She was present to receive the diploma which made her an alumna of the school.

On Municipal Government
Gardner Kavelage's oration on "Municipal Government" was delivered in a forcible manner. The theory of the government of cities of the United States was outlined, with a description of the consequent opportunity for hoodlums and other dishonest methods.

More business methods and less politics in the government of American cities were strongly urged by Mr. Kavelage. He deplored the present condition which has made the city government far inferior to the national organization. New York city and the St. Louis scandal were held up as two glaring instances of what may be done by corrupt city officials. He attributed the condition in part to the slight reward which honesty receives in comparison with the riches which may be acquired by using public office to further private interests.

Another opportunity was given for prolonged and enthusiastic applause when the high school male quartette again appeared. Their first number was so warmly received that they were forced to return before the audience would allow the program to continue. The improvement shown by the quartette during the short time since they began singing together has been very marked.

A Masterly Thesis
Henry C. Shavlen, and Philip V. Wilbur, two graduates of the manual training department, took a topic for a thesis which was of a necessarily technical nature, and for that reason less of interest to the general public although proportionately more difficult to handle. Their subject was "Steam Turbines," and was illustrated by a large number of slides. The development of the steam turbine from the time of the early Egyptians was carefully worked out, Mr. Shavlen taking up the earlier part, its historical development, and Mr. Wilbur explaining the modern types which are now coming into use.

The steam turbine was praised highly by the gentlemen who handled the theme, as more safe, more economical, and less subject to depreciation through wear upon the parts, than the reciprocating engine in common use.

A Literary Theme
Miss Mina O. Lundh delivered a thesis upon the "Purpose of the De Coverley Papers." In order to explain the results which needs must be accomplished Miss Lundh briefly reviewed the conditions existing in England at that time, when vanity, foppishness, and loose habits of living were the rule. In marked contrast to all of these was the simple, abstemious life of Sir Roger De Coverley as outlined in these papers, which grew to be widely read and in large measure attained the purpose for which they were put into circulation.

Miss Lundh's paper showed careful preparation and complete mastery of the theme. Melodramatic stage effects were introduced in Miss Lucy A. Rice's thesis upon the "Geyser." A long metal tube with flaring bottom and a flange at the top to catch the flying water was set upon the stage, a fire started beneath it, and in a few moments the geyser spouted in very realistic fashion, to the immense delight of the audience. Spectators in the gallery who called loudly for an encore. The geyser refused to repeat, however.

Stereoscopic views also aided Miss Rice. Scenes in Yellowstone park, the only place where geysers abound in any quantity aside from Iceland, were thrown upon the curtain. Miss Rice explained the scientific cause of the geyser spout. She eloquently extolled the beauties of Yellowstone park.

Power of Missionary
Miss Neva B. Helmholz set forth in eloquent words "The World's Debt to the Missionary." His influence in opening up benighted lands, his self-sacrifice and pursuit of the higher virtues, his disregard for the world's praise and tribute, were extolled. By his efforts civilization is extended through the world, and the lands already civilized receive monetary gain by the advance in commerce resultant upon his ministrations.

The quartette again took the stage, presenting one of the most difficult numbers which they have attempted. Although the audience clamored for another number the curtain was rung down and a pedestal bearing a flag-draped bust was brought upon the stage.

Miss Helen L. Estes then referred to the custom in the school of leaving some memorial of the departing class to beautify the school room, in accordance with the custom of past classes the class of 1903 desired to present some token to the school. No preceding class had given a bust or portrait of an American statesman, although mythical characters had been placed in prominent places in the school room. The gift of the class of 1903, a bust of the late William McKinley, president of the United States, was then unveiled. Miss Estes eulogized his integrity, uprightness, and unswerving devotion to high principles, all of which must win admiration from his political friends and enemies alike.

An Eloquent Valedictory
The curtain was rung down and the stage prepared for the valedictory address. When the curtain was rung up the forty-nine members of the class were ranged along the back of the stage, four rows deep. The young ladies were given the position of prominence in the front ranks. Thomas J. McClernan then stepped forward and delivered the valedictory address, in behalf of the class which he has led in scholarship for the past four years.

Mr. McClernan's address won resounding applause. The metaphor of the brook that bubbles from a hillside spring but gradually gains in strength and magnitude as it travels to the sea was used to good effect in describing the growth of the class in power and learning.

He referred feelingly to the regret which was experienced in leaving the school building in which the class had spent so many happy hours. Diplomas Presented
Supt. Buell then briefly referred to the excellent work which the class has done and presented them to Pres. W. S. Jeffris of the school board, who stood ready to deliver the diplomas.

Mr. Jeffris thanked the audience for taking the interest in the schools which was manifested by their numbers. He then in a few words complimented the class upon the faithful work done during their high school course. After presenting diplomas to the young ladies in the class, the young men stepped to the front, allowing their classmates to take a position in the rear. As soon as all of the diplomas had been presented the original positions were assumed and the plans sounded the opening bars of the class song.

Effective Ending of Program
Miss Nettie M. Holt's part in the commencement exercises was the composition and the arrangement of the class song. The words were bright and the musical arrangement was very effective. The class had been carefully drilled in the song and the singing was not the least of the pleasing qualities of the composition. From the "Prince of Pilsen" air with which it began, the young men's voices of the class being heard alone, to the full harmony of the closing air, "Good Bye, Sweet Day," the effect was very pleasing. Hits at the diminutive stature of Mr. Van Horn, the inexorable sternness of Mr. Norris' markings—told to the tune of Mr. Dooley—Miss Carrie Zeininger's mysterious black eye, Mr. Buell's paternal advice, the disastrous buggy ride of one member of the class and the great knowledge of another, all tended to lighten to somewhat serious atmosphere which had been created by some of the preceding addresses.

Purple and white colored lights suspended by a network of ribbons of the same colors gave a beautiful effect to the singing of the song. These lights were lowered from the top of the stage as the song began. Miss Holt directed the singing of the song in person.

RAILROAD NEWS OF INTEREST

Items Concerning the Local Yards, and Notes Picked Up Along the Main Line.

Numerous reports come from the east of friction between the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore & Ohio roads. The trouble is said to be due to President Loree's management of the Baltimore & Ohio in a way not approved by A. J. Cassatt of the Pennsylvania company, to whom Mr. Loree owns his present position. The latest report is that at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Baltimore & Ohio in October Mr. Loree will be forced from the presidency and will be succeeded by Oscar G. Murray now vice president.

Work on the double tracking the entire Pan-handle route through Ohio and Indiana, to provide better facilities for handling the big amount of thorough traffic, is going on rapidly. The gigantic task of thus duplicating the southwest line of the Pennsylvania system and of placing the fourth track for a distance of forty miles and of the third track outward fifty miles from Pittsburgh will cost several millions of dollars. While the actual double-tracking of the Indianapolis division will not likely be completed for a number of years, the numerous sidings of from two to three miles in length can easily be connected and thus afford a through track.

The lines from St. Paul to Chicago have agreed to follow the example of the Soo line and make half rates to Boston, Montreal and New England resorts from June 11 to 26. The Soo line claims it decided to make these low rates to the general public because it obtained proof that some of its competitors had agreed to make such rates for certain parties.

At the regular monthly meeting yesterday of the Central Freight association the question of advancing freight rates on various articles was referred to committees, which will report today. Only routine business was transacted at yesterday's meeting of the Central Passenger association.

RAILROADS FAVOR CHICAGO MARKET

Fruit and Produce Dealers in Milwaukee Discuss the Existing Situation.

Evidently Janesville fruit merchants will get all their produce from Chicago as for Michigan products during the coming season it is stated that Michigan railroads carrying fruit and produce from the cities in the fruit belt to Benton Harbor and South Haven for shipment by boat to Chicago and Milwaukee are discriminating against Milwaukee in favor of Chicago. Fruit consigned to Milwaukee commission merchants are through the tardiness of the railroads, not delivered on the docks at Southern Michigan ports until after the boat has left for Milwaukee. As a result shipments are not received in that city until the afternoon of the following day, at which time the fruit is not in the best of condition and the commission firms find it a difficult matter to dispose of it.

JUST HOW WOOL CLOTH IS MADE

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT THE HANDLING OF WOOL.

PROCESS IT UNDERGOES

From the Sheep's Back to the Back of a Well Dressed Man.

Almost everyone knows the process that a little lamb must undergo from the time he leaves the fresh green fields in the springtime to the moment when he arrives, nicely shorn and brown, on the dining table. Not so many people know, even in a general way, all changes that the fleece of the old sheep is subjected to from shearing time till the wool appears in the finished cloth.

Fleece of the Sheep
When the fleece is cut from the sheep it is tied in small bundles and these are placed in larger sacks and sent to the commission merchants in the big cities or direct to the mills, scattered all over the country. There are many different kinds and grades of wool and these are used for different purposes. Different feeding grounds and climatic conditions affect the texture of the wool. If a sheep is poorly fed during part of the year and well fed during the balance, this fact can be easily told by the difference in texture in the wool that has last grown. The wool from a sheep raised in the state of Illinois is different from the covering of an animal grown in our own state, and again, the lambs that frisk over the western ranges have a fleece that is still of another texture. A great quantity of this latter wool comes to Janesville, to be made into "melton" woolen cloth at the Rock River Woolen mills.

A Big Mill
This is an immense mill, having over 24,000 square feet of floor space. Every year, on an average, this concern consumes about 720,000 pounds of wool, or 2,400 sacks or bales. Nearly all of this great quantity comes from the ranges of the far west, such wool is technically called "territory wool." Sometimes the fleeces come from a greater distance and are cut from the sheep in far off Australia. This wool is at present much higher in price than the domestic article.

The company has a force of eighty hands, about half of whom are men and half women. The many machines and looms are run by means of a 75-horse power engine and two turbine water wheels that have a force equal to 150-horse power.

The Process
The changes in a fleece from the time that it leaves the freight car till it is finished in the cloth are many and intricate. First the bundles are cut open and thrown into a large vat, where they are scoured and cleaned, from here to a second vat where the process is repeated, then into a third tub where they are thoroughly rinsed. The next step is to prepare the wool for dyeing. It is placed into an immense vat which contains and acid mixture, called "Mordant," this penetrates between all the fibres and separates them and makes the dyeing easier.

Next comes a soaking in the dye fluid in another big tub, these vats are large affairs, each having a capacity of 77 barrels of the liquid. The dye is kept boiling by means of steam passing through it. The wool is kept in the dye until the desired color is obtained. The exact shades between the colors are obtained by running two colors of wool in the right proportions through a machine called a mixer. This machine separates the fibres and then skillfully mixes them by blowing the different colors together again. Now the wool is taken to the carding machines, of which there are six in the mill. In enters one end of the machines in the loose state and comes out at the other, made into a coarse yarn. It is then transferred to another set of machines that have the odd name of "mules," because they get out of order so frequently and "balk."

The "Mules"
The "mules" twist the threads and make them finer. There are eight of these "mules" working patiently every day at this mill. Now the threads are ready to go to the looms and 28 of them fill an immense room and the noise of the shuttles flying back and forth between the threads is deafening. On the looms the wool cloth is made and most of the work is done, but before it is ready to be sold it must go through the finishing machines which closes the spaces between the threads, and then through apparatus that takes off the roughness. Last of all the cloth must be ironed and dried after which it is put up ready for shipment to be made into suitings and the other many useful purposes for which wool cloth serves us.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Friday, June 12, 1863.—Yesterday the greatest cavalry battle of the war was fought on the Rappahannock. The result has been the defeat of the rebels, whose captured correspondence shows that they were about to make a most extensive raid into Maryland and Pennsylvania under the command of Stuart, with some 15,000 cavalry.

The third Wisconsin battery, attached to the 23rd army corps, publishes a challenge in the Nashville papers, and offers to bet one to two thousand dollars that the members can out-drill Southwick's battery, Gen Brannan to be judge.

Twenty-second Regiment. — Jesse L. Berch has been appointed as 1st lieutenant and quartermaster of the 22nd regiment, vice Holmes, deceased.

The Prince of Wales and some of his friends visited the London Times office one night recently, and saw the paper put to press at three o'clock in the morning. A young married man would look a great deal better at home at that time of night.

Proceedings of the Common Council.—Alderman Strong introduced an ordinance amending the cow ordinance, which in effect allowed the cows to run at large from the 15th of April to the 15th of October, A.D. Sheldon offered an amendment which entirely removed the restriction, and allowed cows a free range at all times and all seasons.

A private letter from Alexandria, in Egypt, which has fallen into the hands of the editor of the New York Evening Post gives the view taken by an intelligent American of the practicability and importance of the great enterprise, now auspiciously begun, of a ship canal across the isthmus of Suez. We copy a passage or two relating to that subject. "I have lately returned from the works on the Suez canal. It is as President Lincoln says, 'a big job,' but it is certain to succeed, and it will bring back the trade of the world round the channel from which it was diverted by the discovery of Good Hope.

Coming Attractions.

A delightful surprise is in store

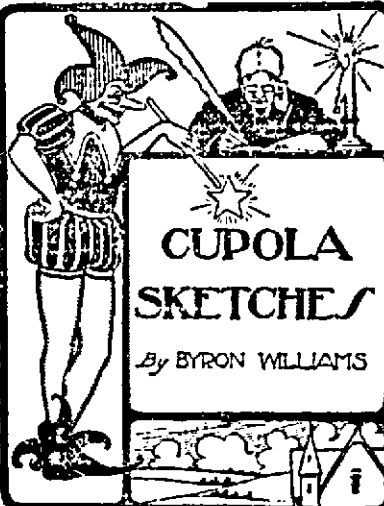

JOHN W. VOGEL
"THE MINSTREL KING"

for those theatrically inclined, for

John Vogel's Big Minstrels are due at the Myers Grand opera house soon. Arthur Rigby will of course be the chief merry-maker on this occasion, and to our minds there is no comedian so well prepared to infuse spontaneous mirth as the genial Arthur. He has long held the premier place, and in this greatest of minstrel shows, will clearly demonstrate his right to the title, "Comedy King."

Crawford & Finning, those invincible and unapproachable musical comedians, Don Gordon, Comedy Trick Cyclist, Brobst Brothers, the dancing dandies; Gregory, the world's greatest hoop roller; Chas. Gano the clever comedian and parodist, an unusually large singing contingent including the greatest minstrel basso in the world, Mr. Grant Merkle, Prof. Norton's double symphony orchestra, and many others comprise this large company of fifty-five members. The scenic equipment will be complete, the first part setting being more elaborate and costly than anything of the kind ever seen here. Two specially constructed cars are required to transport the people and effects of this mammoth organization.

Some dreamy romancer who, presumably, "once upon a time" loved a girl that made her own soft-soap, goes into poetic ecstasies over that article of woman's wearing apparel known in common parlance as a sun-bonnet. For one we prefer other modes of millinery. The only thing in favor of a sun-bonnet is the absence of birds as decorative material, hence the sun-bonnet has escaped the Audobon society only to fall into the metro of amateur poetry. What part of the sun-bonnet is beautiful, pray? Is it the bulge in the back that sticks out like a white sheet behind a "one-baby-one-clear" lay-out at a breezy country fair? Is it the tails that "follow flockwise"? Indeed, is it the side-curtains, the blinders, the canopy top, or does the beauty of the sun-bonnet depend upon the amalgamation of all these characteristics? The young man could not tell why he loved his dear one, except that "you are you." Perhaps it is the same way with the lovers of the sun-bonnet.

It is stated in good authority that Eve invented this style of head dress. She had had a bad day with Adam, Cain had cut his finger on a blade of wiregrass and Abel had pulled all the tall feathers out of the last bird of paradise left in the Garden of Eden. In this state of mental worry she evolved the sun-bonnet. Adam didn't like it at the time, but there wasn't a milliner in all Eden, so he couldn't go with her and get it changed. Wise man that he was, he accepted the inevitable and set her to boiling soft soap!

But from Adam down there has been no man to admire the bonnet, until this poet-romancer turned his muse to alleviate his feelings. Had the young man seen his lady love minus her bonnet, and with a rose in her hair, we would scarcely be responsible for the heights to which his poetry would have carried him:

"She wears a rose in her hair,
At the twilight's dreamy close;
Her face is fair,—how fair
Under the rose!"

But under the sun-bonnet—bah!

Strange, isn't it, that queer handles attach themselves to men now and then, and will not be broken away? Once upon a time William A. Sunday played baseball. Later he entered religious work, and for twelve years he has been referred to as "Billy Sunday, the baseball preacher." According to the same bestowal of handles, President Roosevelt should be known as "Ted Roosevelt, the cow-puncher president." J. Pierpont Morgan as "Pierp Morgan, the frog-catching plutocrat," Marshall Field as "Marsh Field, the counter-jumper millionaire," and thus on indefinitely. Despite the fact that Sunday is now an ordained minister, he is still billed and newspapered as the baseball preacher. Presumably he is mightily sick of his handle by this time and wishes he had never played "old cat" or cajoled with Captain Anson's colts of yesteryear.

Seems like the country isn't as free as it used to be. There is the Joplin juror, for instance, who was reprimanded by Judge Potter for eating peanuts in the jury box while a trial was in progress! Is the munching of goobers a slam at law and order? Don't justice ever crunch peanuts, we ask? At this rate it will be only another decade until the man who grumbles at bread crumbs left in the bed by the baby will be justified. There is such a thing as getting too aesthetically nice.

The George Washington cherry-tree hatchet has been found in Virginia. It was sticking in the frame-work of Eve's fruit stand and was found by the original Roosevelt man. It was immediately expressed to the President, care John Burroughs, Yellowstone Park, as a reminder that we want the truth, and nothing but the truth, about those mountain lions. Did you shoot 'em, or didn't you, Mr. President?

One country editor advertises a baby-cab for sale. Another remarks that country editor number one is tempting Fate. Number two says he advertised and sold a cab once, and later had to pay five times the sale price for a new one. The experienced will please testify!

"What is Going on in Society" is the head that daily captions a half column of reading matter in one of our daily papers. Wonder why this reminds us of the old gospel hymn, "The Half Has Never Been Told"?

A country editor, noting the fight against the shirt waist for women, is greatly perturbed lest the fair ones return to hard-boiled shirt-fronts. We are surprised.

AIDED SON TO DODGE THE LAW

THAT IS THE CHARGE MADE AGAINST ANTON WOLETZ.

PROMISED TO KEEP LAD SAFE

Yonh Was Allowed to Come Home from Waukesha to Attend His Mother's Funeral.

Within a few days of the funeral of his wife, Anton Woletz has again been plunged into the depths of gloom. Yesterday Mr. Woletz was arrested on a charge of aiding his son, a prisoner at the Waukesha industrial school, to escape from the clutches of the law. The lad had been allowed to return to attend his mother's funeral upon his father's promise of safe keeping.

When Sheriff Appleby called yesterday to secure the boy and take him back to Waukesha, he found that the bird had flown. As nearly as could be learned Woletz helped his wayward son to escape. The warrant for arrest followed, and before night the father was lodged behind the bars.

Wanted Immediate Trial

In the municipal court this morning Woletz was brought up, but the absence of one of the principal witnesses from the city prevented District Attorney Jackson from beginning the prosecution today. The case will come up next Wednesday.

Woletz protested vehemently when informed that he could not be heard today.

"Honorable Judge," he said, "I have a family that I must support and I cannot be idle in jail." Attorney Cunningham, who will defend Woletz, urged the plea that the delay be as slight as possible. In the absence of the principal witness nothing could be done. It was suggested that three hundred dollars bonds could probably be furnished by one of the prisoner's friends, and would insure his presence for examination.

Examination next Wednesday. "But, Honorable Judge," protested Woletz, "I am a cripple. I could not run away."

"In these days," replied His Honor, "it is not necessary to run to get away. There are trains. I will fix the ball at $300."

It was due to Sheriff Appleby's kindness of heart that the son, John, Woletz was allowed to return to the funeral, and the sheriff gave him over to the custody of the father, who promised that the boy would be returned. The boy is one of the youngsters who was sent to the industrial school for breaking into cars and stealing whiskey.

JANESVILLE FOR PICNIC IN 1904

Was Favored By Many Delegates at Rockford Yesterday But Local Delegates Protested.

Janesville might easily have secured the Old Fellows' picnic for next year. The delegates to the meeting of the picnic association at Rockford yesterday favored this city, and the Beloit delegates strongly urged a vote fixing upon the Bower City. The Janesville delegates remonstrated, on the ground that they had no authority to accept the picnic in behalf of their lodges. When a vote was taken Rockford was again fixed upon as the scene of the picnic for 1904.

COMMENCEMENT SEASON IS ON

SOUNDS OF GRADUATING ORATIONS
FROM THE COUNTY.

COUNTRY SCHOOLS CLOSING

Terms Are Being Brought to an End
Every Week—Fulton Exercises
this Evening.

From district schoolhouses in every remote corner of the county comes the sound of commencement essays and "pieces." At the rate of several a week the schools are bringing their terms to a close. By the end of the week the majority of the schools will have ended their terms until fall. There is no uniformity of custom in regard to the time when the final exercises shall be held. If a majority of the students in a district desire to attend a wedding or a picnic, the length of the school term may be curtailed.

Many Graduations Held.
An idea of the number of commencement exercises which are being pulled off may be gained from the fact that there are eighty-three schoolhouses in the first district, and nearly as many in the second. Beloit and Janesville schools are not counted in these lists, as they both have city superintendents and are not under the jurisdiction of County Superintendents Hemingway and Antisdel.

Variety of Closing Dates.
On May 22 the first county commencement was held, and the last will not occur until nearly July 10. So it has been reported to the superintendent. It is the town of Avon that the distinction of holding the latest term will probably stand. Their system of dividing the terms is somewhat different from that in other parts of the county. Commencement exercises will be held at the Fulton graded school tonight. William Ross and Charles Hemingway are among the speakers.

MEAT PRICES ARE LIABLE TO RISE

Shortage in Chicago May Bring the Prices Up in Janesville.

Meat that is shipped into Janesville this week has not advanced in price but it has again been reported that a scarcity of meat is within the range of probability. Chicago is now practically the only market and is furnishing the supply for nearly the whole country and the receipts of cattle, hogs and sheep have lessened to an extent that is alarming. Wednesday the supply was 788 carloads less than the same day a week before and 384 less than came in on the same Wednesday in 1902, when the cattle famine was at its height. As long as Kansas City and the St. Louis packing houses are out of business owing to the floods, it is feared that Chicago will be unable to meet the demand, with the slender supplies in sight. Chicago beef values on the hoof advanced 15 to 25 percent per 100 pounds, while hogs are up to 15 to 25 cents and sheep 10 to 15 cents. In trade circles it is thought that the packers will use the situation as a means to increase the price of meat to retailers.

Receipts of cattle in Chicago Wednesday were 12,500 less than the Wednesday previous; of hogs 19,400 less and of sheep 7,000 less. No reason is advanced for so great and sudden a shrinkage in the supply.

DOINGS AT THE RAILWAY CENTER

Personals of Employees in the Local Yards and Along the Line.

Clifford P. Smallwood, operator at the Y. D. tower of the North-Western road, has returned to work after a six weeks' trip in the south. He visited his home at Hansborough, Mississippi City and New Orleans.

Mr. Kilnesmith, operator for the North-Western road, has been changed to the office at Kenosha, Wis.

Mr. T. Erickson, the North-Western roundhouse foreman, left the city today on a short business trip.

Putting It Delicately.
Here is the extremely delicate way which a man states his chief reason for asking that he be freed from matrimonial bonds, which call: "The defendant has acted in such a way that said husband has had difficulty in distinguishing her treatment of him as a husband from her treatment of others who bore no such relation to her."

Mistook the Symptoms.
The man comes home about an hour after the firemen have been summoned to his residence. The fire is out, but the front of the house is decked with broken furniture, rumpled carpets, disarranged bedding, pieces of cracked bric-a-brac, and smashed pictures. Surveying the scene for a moment, he goes into the house, meeting his wife in the hallway. "I thought you weren't going to clean house until next week," he comments.

Export of Animal Products.
The total value of the exports of animal products in 1902 was about $3,000,000 greater than the like exports of the previous year, but there was a decrease of nearly $8,000,000 in the value of cattle exported. This was due to the sharp demand for beef cattle in this country.

OGDEN FETHERS MUCH HONORED

Is Presented With a Costly Jewel By the Knights of Pythias at Eau Claire.

Ogden H. Fethers was presented with a costly jewel in the grand lodge of the Knights of Pythias meeting at Eau Claire. The presentation was made on behalf of the supreme lodge, and in accordance with the instructions of that body given last fall. By request of Mr. Fethers the ceremony was deferred until such a time as it could be carried out in his own state.

The jewel which Mr. Fethers, who is Past Supreme Chancellor of the order, received at Eau Claire, consists of a circle of gold, surmounted by a laurel wreath in enamel. Upon the wreath is a platinum triangle, bearing the escutcheon of the order. Seven diamonds set off a bar from which the circle is suspended. The large central diamond is a gift from the grand lodge of the domain of Wisconsin.

PANAMA CANAL MAY CAUSE WAR

Washington, June 12.—There will in all probability be a revolution in Colombia if the Panama canal treaty is not ratified by the congress. According to confidential information received here from agents of this country in Colombia the states of Panama and Cauca, which occupy the isthmus, will secede and organize an independent republic, so as to get the benefits which will result from the construction of the canal.

In those states the sentiment in favor of the canal is almost unanimous, but it is feared the opposition elsewhere in the country is so strong the treaty will be defeated. President Marroquin is heartily in sympathy with those who desire the pending treaty ratified. He is hampered, however, by the strong sentiment prevailing outside the isthmus and among his ministry.

States May Secede.
Just what the Colombian government would do should Panama and Cauca secede cannot be predicted, but it is worthy of consideration that Colombia has just passed through a devastating civil war and the government might hesitate to enter upon another struggle, particularly on the isthmus, where the rebels will be in a position to get arms and ammunition without difficulty. The Colombian government is anxious to get the $10,000,000 bonus and the annual rental to be given by the United States if the canal treaty is ratified. This money is needed to tide over the present impoverished condition of the treasury due to the recent internal conflict.

Want More Money.
The opposition to the treaty is not based on the construction of the canal by the United States, but upon the claims that a higher price should be paid. As this government is unwilling to increase the pecuniary terms set forth in the treaty that agreement must stand or fall in its present shape.

It will be necessary for Panama and Cauca to act quickly in carrying out the reported secession, as President Roosevelt will begin to negotiate with Nicaragua and Costa Rica for a right to build an interoceanic waterway through those countries. While no one in authority is willing to predict directly what this government will do if Panama and Cauca should secede, it is evident from remarks made by those in a position to know that a successful issue of the secession movement would be an inducement to the United States to negotiate a canal treaty with the new republic.

New York's Italian Population.
The Italian population of New York, which must now be toward 250,000, is increasing by immigration at so rapid a rate that it is likely to be somewhere about half a million in 1910, for its natural increase is also large.

Only Statue With Umbrella.
There is only one statue in Great Britain with an umbrella. This is to be seen at Reading and represents Mr. G. Palmer of biscuit fame, standing bareheaded with a silk hat and umbrella in hand.

MORTGAGES WILL GO UNASSESSED

DECISION IS REACHED BY ASSESSORS WHO MET HERE.

STUDIED THE LAW CAREFULLY

Found that Mortgage Blanks Usually Have Clause Compelling Mort-gager to Pay Taxes.

After thoroughly going over the new mortgage laws, it was agreed by the assessors who met at the courthouse that mortgages should not be assessed this year. This was the matter of greatest importance in the discussion, and the one on which there was greatest difference of opinion.

Finally the decision was reached not to list mortgages in making the assessments.

This decision was based on the fact that practically every form of mortgage blank now in use in the county contains a clause stipulating that the taxes and insurance shall be paid by the mortgagor.

Under this form of mortgage, assessment would not be required to comply with the law, so it was decided.

..NEWS FROM NEAR-BY TOWNS..

MILTON
Milton, June 12.—Tuesday afternoon the college nine won their second game from the Whitewater Normal team by a score of 12 to 10. The college team was crippled by having to play substitutes and men out of position, so that the fast playing and team work of the infield, which was characterized by their playing this season, were lacking. However, they won an exciting but loosely played game. Crandall struck out five men. Bond-one and Klesnerman five. Both teams batted well. Milton stole 14 bases. Whitewater 3. Davison, as umpire, gave general satisfaction. This game finished the regular college schedule, although an exhibition game will be played next Wednesday. Funds for the purpose of raising field to reimburse the management. Out of eight school games Milton college has won seven and lost one. Among her victories is the game with Marquette college, of Milwaukee, one of the best of the small college teams in the state. Milton worked hard for the championship and earned it by fast and steady ball playing. The Sharon high school crossed bats with the Milton Academy team Monday and won by a score of 7 to 3. PLENTY OF IT
Lots More Proof Like This and It Is All From Janesville People.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating of it." If any city or town in the union has sufficient proof on the following subject it is Janesville. Genuine merit is finding its reward in the hearty endorsement of local citizens. When people right here at home, friends and neighbors of our readers give a statement like the following for publication it is proof convincing for the most skeptical. Read this testimony:

Mrs. S. L. Belden of 64 S. River street says: "During two or three years I suffered most of the time with a terrific dragging down pain in my back just over the kidneys. It was very trying when I was at work and if I did any lifting my bladder became affected causing me considerable annoyance. I also had attacks of headache (which seemed like congestion in the top and back of my head). When I read about Doan's Kidney Pills I did not have any too much confidence in them but my daughter got a box at the People's Drug Co.'s store and persuaded me to use them. They took right hold and made a wonderful change in my condition. I hardly realized how bad I was until Doan's Kidney Pills brought me relief from the afflictions."

A Most Delicious Dessert

Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit is made in the most hygienic and scientific food laboratory in the world. The wheat is spun into light shreds, containing thousands of open pores and is not crushed flat and dense as in the case of other foods. These pores absorb the digestive juices and provide far greater surface for their action than is given by any other food.

The following simple "course before coffee" is much in vogue with club men everywhere. The simplicity of preparation and the little cost, together with the delicious taste of the biscuits, make this dessert in rare favor in the home.

USE SEASONABLE FRUIT AND

SHREDDED WHOLE WHEAT BISCUIT

Split and slightly toast the biscuit, then serve with berries, sliced peaches, bananas or any seasonable fruit. Simple, isn't it? Your verdict will be

"Simply Delicious"

For Shortcake—With sharp knife halve the SHREDDED WHOLE WHEAT BISCUIT lengthwise; prepare pineapple or fruit (or bananas or mixed fruit) and for sauce add sugar and whipped cream.

SHREDDED WHOLE WHEAT BISCUIT is sold by all grocers.
